Apartments in the old city building over the New England fruit store are undergoing a thorough renovation preparatory to their occupancy by the musicians' union and the Barre citizens' band. Music hall on Prospect street, the present quarters of the band and musicians' union, has long been too small for the rapidly growing organizations and it is expected that the old city building rooms will meet their needs more adequately. The interior is being treated to a new coat of paint, along with other improvements that will be completed in time for occupancy by February 5.

James G. Manos and Saterg Charl, two Burlington young men, have purchased the shoe shining business connected with the United Fruit store and will move the fixtures from their present location to adjoining apartments in the Boyce-Durkee block now occupied by Gordon Riddell as a jewelry store.

Manager George Maniatty of the United Fruit store said today that he would continue in the fruit and confectionery business. The new proprietors of the shining parlors will operate a hat cleaning establishment and small tobacco store in connection with the shining business. Mr. Riddell, who vacates the place, has not announced his plans for the future.

Mrs. George W. Chandler of Farwell street is passing several days in West Berlin with her sister, Mrs. M. E. Glinn, who recently returned from the Heaton hospital in Montpelier.

B. W. Goodfellow is exhibiting in the display windows of his jewelry store a handsome mounted specimen of the loon, which he gunned a short time ago on a hunting trip to Lake Champlain. The loon is a fish-eating diving bird of the genus gavia, and this specimen Mr. Goodfellow claims to be very rare.

The next basketball game scheduled by the Shamrock A. A. will be played next week against the French Catholic association, the date not being definitely set. There is a possibility of the Tufts sophomore team not playing in Barre on their tour through Vermont the first part of next week, owing to a disagreement over the guarantee.

The final number of the series of assembly dances conducted by the Knights of Columbus this winter was held last evening in the Scamplini building. There were about 80 couples in attendance at the dance. Riley's orchestra furnished music for the dancing. The dance was in charge of the council's entertainment committee.

C. Bau of Franklin street returned this morning from Boston, where he has been attending the Eastman school of professional photographers, which convened at Boston this week. Before returning, Mr. Bau visited at West Somerville, completing arrangements with a manufacturing company to supply material for the new framework department at his studio.
